

The Bedouins of the Sinai peninsula have lived there well over 1000 years. We have come to know some families at the base of Mount Sinai (associated with the historical character of Moses). Several men know and love the wilderness and mountainous areas near their homes and they delight in taking guests into the mountains. They can guide you to the top of Mount Sinai and sleep there. Our Bedouin friends can also take you on a hike for several days, into the Mountain Reserve; climbing granite peaks, swimming in the many wadi (valley) pools and sleeping and eating in their gardens, dotted throughout this rugged and beautiful terrain. You will come away from the experience invigorated by the mountain air and dramatic rock strewn scenery, as well as by her people. Afterwards, take a few days relaxing and swimming in the nearby coastal town of Dahab, on the Red Sea.

Experience the adventure : climb Mount Sinai, explore the mountains, valleys and steep canyons, sleep outside under the stars, build a fire to bake local bread, swim in remote pools, watch the sunset and sunrise from a peak, sleep in a monastery, and end it all snorkeling or diving in the Red Sea near Dahab.
